The rapid fire of M-4 Carbine rifles created a strident beat while soldiers and civilians, differentiated by camouflage patterns and collar rank, became acquainted on the firing range Wednesday morning.

The 24 soldiers of Scout Platoon of 1st Battalion, 21st Infantry (Gimlets) with the 25th Infantry Division (Light), arrived on island last week to work with USAKA and Kwajalein police personnel on security for the missile defense test next week. Unlike the Military Police group that supported IFT-6 in July, this unit brings different skills to the island.

"Their business is surveillance and reconnaissance," said Col. Curtis L. Wrenn Jr., USAKA commander. "We've got law enforcement personnel already. This gives us a different capability. If you match this up with our law enforcement capability, now we have enhanced our capabilities considerably."

The soldiers and police spent Wednesday training each other in the use of their weapons, said KPD investigator Sgt. Mike Lawson.

"They have some weapons that CIS doesn't have and vice-versa," Wrenn said. "It's a good training opportunity for both."

In addition to the training both

Residents show Christmas spirit by helping Marshallese neighbors

By Barbara Johnson

If the calendar is any indication, it looks like Kwajalein and Roi-Namur residents will outdo themselves this holiday season when it comes to the giving spirit.

Time, gifts, talent and culture will be shared with others in a variety of ways and through a number of venues in the next few weeks.

Christmas Exchange Party, Dec. 8

This holiday dinner, sponsored by the Yokwe Yuk Women's Club, is a chance for women from Kwajalein and Ebeye to share food, cultural traditions, songs, dances, skits, gifts, laughter and fun.

About 60 women and a band come over from Ebeye for the evening, and each woman has a Kwaj hostess at the dinner. The event is open to all women from Kwaj and Roi.

Enniburr Christmas on Roi, Dec. 10

About 400 children, plus parents, arrive on Roi at 2 p.m. for this holiday tradition, combined with the evening Roi tree-lighting ceremony. More than 900 people attended last year.

The event begins with games and prizes, and at 4 p.m. Santa arrives on a fire truck. Children all get a gift bag filled with books, toothbrushes, fruit, T-shirts and other goodies.

The evening includes a musical program, with singing and dancing by members of three Enniburr churches.

"The whole Enniburr community is involved in the musical program," said Karin Robas, of Roi Community Activities.

Roi residents raise funds all year for gifts and the party, with the major fund-raiser being the Chili Cook-off, which contributed about $6,000 this year, according to Margaret Thompson, who co-chairs the event with Trina Roynce.

The party has a "lot of history," Thompson

There's a reason to be thankful every day of the year

Yesterday was Thanksgiving. I ate too much ... and thought a lot about the great things in my life. Scarlett and Jeff were kind to invite me over to Beckley Beach. It's not just hard housing, you know. Their's is a home. There's a difference.

I'm thankful to be on Kwajalein again this time of year, with no pressure from friends to go downhill skiing. The one time I tried that, I ended up on crutches, gained 16 pounds and had to join Weight Watchers. Right ... like I'm going there again.

Remember my run-in with the Rubber Check Recovery Cartel? My bad check to K-Mart for $40 ended up costing me $147 to clear my name? Now K-Mart sends me their Mastercard, with a $1,000 limit. I'm not necessarily thankful for that, but thought I'd mention it because I love the irony.

I love my job here and feel honored to work for Col. Curtis L. Wrenn, Jr. Truly ... I've worked for a lot of colonels in my 27 years as an Army civilian, and he's the best. Smart. Fair. Happy. A good man. To sir with love.

I so much appreciate the women in my life. I think women teach little girls how to become women. They weave the fabric of younger lives simply by being who they are and passing that on. My Aunt Grace, for instance ... at the age of 72, she's still a short dynamo with long red hair. I think if she had been born in my generation — and perhaps taller — she would either be an Army general or ride her own Harley. Maybe both.

My dairy farmer grandmother, Zeffie, who gave me her love for the land, for the smell of the earth, and for the taste of a warm tomato eaten straight from the garden ... and my city grandmother, Mary Francis, who inspired my love for the magic of words.

I've never told you about my girlfriends at the command in Huntsville, and the night seven of us went to see the Chippendales. What a scream watching these professional women hoot and holler. We all have stretch marks older than those guys! Oh well, yippie ky-oh, ky-ay ... and thanks ladies.

Another good friend, Little Boo. Why she has tolerated so much from me for the last five years, I have no idea. She's so good. Too good, really. She never has any sins to take into confession for the priest, so I give her some of mine.

Remember Bonnie ... the woman I met in the bike shop in San Antonio? She was buying a new bicycle, "something in blue," she said. She wanted to be in the Senior Olympics the following spring. Bonnie told me about Samuel Ullman's essay, "Youth" ... it's not a time of life; it's a state of mind. Years may wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul. Bonnie attributed her lively longevity to working hard, playing hard, praying hard, a daily glass of wine and a sense of humor. She said that as long as you're a responsible, contributing adult, it doesn't matter when you enjoy your childhood. At the end of the day, she told me, "Grow old gracefully dear, but don't ever grow up."

And, the two women who have been in my life every day of my life; my Mom and my sister. They are my best friends. I have a silver initial ring my Mom gave me for high school graduation. I remember it cost $12 then. She put it on layaway at the jewelry store and paid a dollar on it every month for a year so it would be paid off by the time I walked across the stage for my diploma. I wouldn't take a million dollars for that ring because my Mom paid for it with her heart.

My sister Becky. Where do I start? She's quiet and funny, and she's always been my center. I still learn from her. She's taught me so much. Patience and kindness. To be loving ... and to never sit on a bar stool and smoke a cigarette because, "it doesn't look ladylike." At the same time she's arm-wrestling our older brother to the ground, but that's the kind of short, little paradox Becky is. She fascinates me.

There's so much more. But it's enough to say, all of my days should be Thanksgiving.

From the Editor: Yes, the holidays are upon us

Father Time has done it again: The year is quickly waning. The turkey leftovers are still fresh and edible for another week or so — don't mind the congealed puddle of mysterious liquid resting ominously on the pumpkin pie — but Christmas is once again upon us like a sudden snow storm, when we'll be buried under an avalanche of trees, tinsel and toys.

We're already weary thinking about all the events coming up over the next month. Judging by today's front page story about Host Nation-related Christmas activities, lots of folks are already in the holiday spirit.

And that's just the tip of the coral head. Next week, of course, we officially launch into the holiday with the annual Christmas parade and tree-lighting ceremony Dec. 1. After that, Santa and the Mrs. will be taking orders at the Yokwe Yuk Club Dec. 3. And then there are special guest bands, company Christmas parties and, of course, the mission to support.

Yes, we're ready for Christmas. But, you'll excuse us if we enjoy the leftovers of 2001 for a few more days.

The Hourglass is named for the insignia of the U.S. Army 7th Infantry Division, which liberated the island from the forces of Imperial Japan on Feb 4, 1944.

The Kwajalein Hourglass is an authorized publication for military personnel, federal employees, contractor workers and their families assigned to USAKA. Contents of the Hourglass are not necessarily official views of, or endorsed by, the U.S. Government, Department of Defense, Department of the Army or USAKA. It is published Tuesdays and Fridays using a network printer by Raytheon Range Systems Engineering editorial staff, P.O. Box 23, APO AP 96555. Phone: Autovon 254-3539; local 53539.

Hobby Shop gets new management, new direction

Some exciting things have happened over the last few weeks in and around your island. Please make sure you receive and return the next mini-survey. If you don't have e-mail access at home or work, please contact Operations at 54224 for an old-fashioned paper copy. We want everyone's input.

Yuk Theater

The new sound system is installed and operational. Did you notice a difference last weekend? Although the system is installed, it still needs a little tweaking to further increase the sound quality. Throughout the holiday season, Community Activities will show holiday films, classics, newer films and new releases. It's going to be great to actually hear Jimmy Stewart say, "It's a wonderful life!"

Grace Sherwood Library

The library is going to change. Read the Commander's Column in next Tuesday's Hourglass.

Recreation centers

They need you. Do you like flowers, plants and getting your hands dirty? The beautification plans are on hold due to a lack of a botanist on the island. Does anyone have some time to help them? Contact Steve at 53331 if you can.

Hobby Shop

Has a new manager. Julie Balter is digging in and getting things done. First is house-cleaning. Balter is cleaning off shelves, molds and woodworking equipment to see what is under the clay and sawdust. Ads on the TV Roller and in the Hourglass ask patrons to claim projects that have been whiling away for more than two months. Unclaimed items will be disposed of, and shelf space liberated.

Secondly, Balter plans to reorganize available floor space next year. With the help of seasoned customers, she wants to maximize the Hobby Shop's potential. She is also updating, upgrading and replacing some tools in the shop. Class availability will be broadened, as she has seen a great interest in everything from beginning pottery to woodworking for women. (Personally, the thought of a circular saw in my hands will scare my husband... "Oh honey, let me do that." Yeah, right!!) Something tells me I won't enroll in that one, but you can. It will be advertised and coordinated with Adult/Community Education.

Safety orientation classes for woodworking are on their way, and children's classes are on the agenda. Experienced potters have been enlisted to give more introduction to pottery classes, which have started and are well received. Children's Craft Club for grades K-6 started, with the assistance of Audra Mayhan, youth activities supervisor.

Balter said, "Customer service is my primary objective for the Hobby Shop. It's a place for people to go and relieve stress, and to simply enjoy themselves." She wants the Hobby Shop to be a fun place. She hopes and expects the APIC survey to tell her she's on the right track. "I'll use this [survey] to give people what they desire," she added.

So, keep filling out those surveys, people. The owners are looking for them. Stay tuned ...

Christmas traditions cross culture this holiday season ...

said, adding, "We couldn't do it without the volunteers."

Christmas in the Marshall Islands, Dec. 17

Singers and dancers from Ebeye will share their Christmas traditions with the Kwaj community by performing songs and dances at the Richardson Theater. As many as 100 performers have participated in past years in this event, sponsored by the Marshallese Cultural Society.

Outer Island Christmas Drop, Dec. 19

Members of the YYWC and others will deliver about 350 children's gift bags to Ebaddon and Majetto by helicopter.

The club assembles, by age, girls' and boys' bags containing toys, T-shirts, slippers, coloring books in Marshallese, among other items, according to Denise Bottomley, event co-chair. Kwajalein Child Development Center decorates the gift bags. Rice, fruit, and a community sewing kit will also be given to the communities.

Major funding for the gift drop is provided by American Legion Post 44 and the American Legion Auxiliary. USAKA Host Nation also provides support for this event. A committee from the YYWC works all year to raise additional funds and collect donations from the community, scouts and other groups.

Christmas on Carlos, Dec. 21

The Marshall Islands Club at Kwajalein High School sponsors this yearly holiday trip to deliver about 40 grab bags to girls and boys. The bags contain flip flops, caps, and toys, and the group also takes school supplies. The day includes singing, games and a lunch.

Funds are collected by a class competition at the high school, and Madelain Westermann's and Gwen Kelly's third-grade classes traditionally contribute proceeds from a crafts sale for the event.

"It's a small village," said Ric Fullerton, one of the advisers. "They know us and we know them. It's very special."

The Marshall Islands club has a fluid membership, Fullerton explained. Any high school student can participate in this event, but they must work on preparing the gifts in order to go.

KAISC Funds to Carlos

Kwajalein Atoll International Sportfishing Club voted to donate $500 this year for school supplies to the new school on Carlos, in addition to a $500 scholarship they give to Kwajalein High School.

The Boy Scouts were on a campout there recently, said Chris Ouderkirk, club member, and found out that the school needs curriculum supplies. Members are looking into purchasing and delivering the supplies.

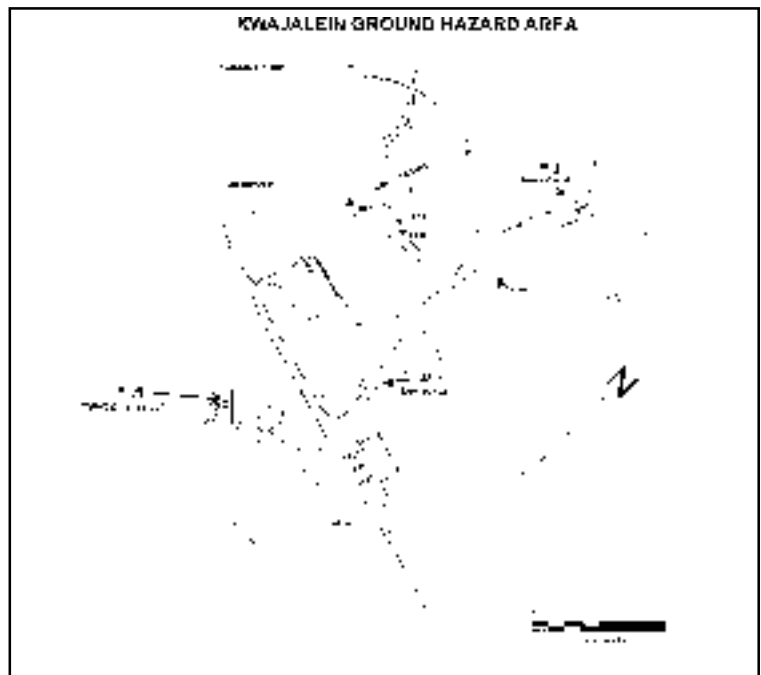

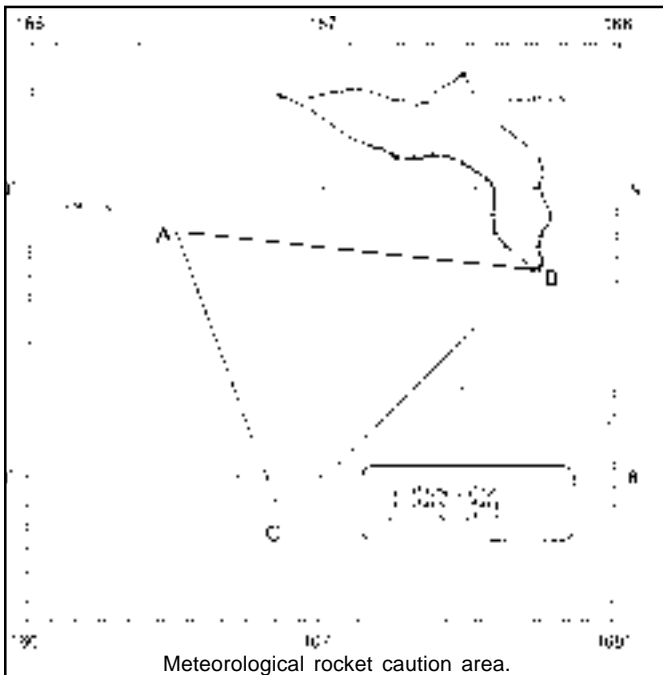

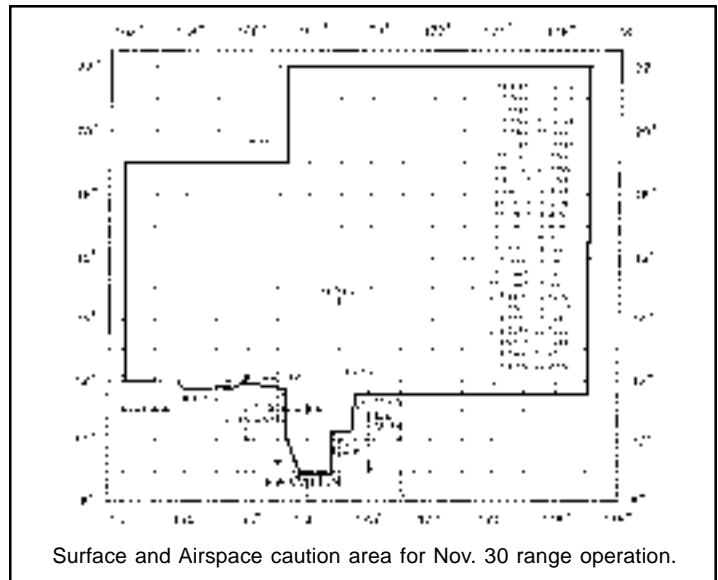

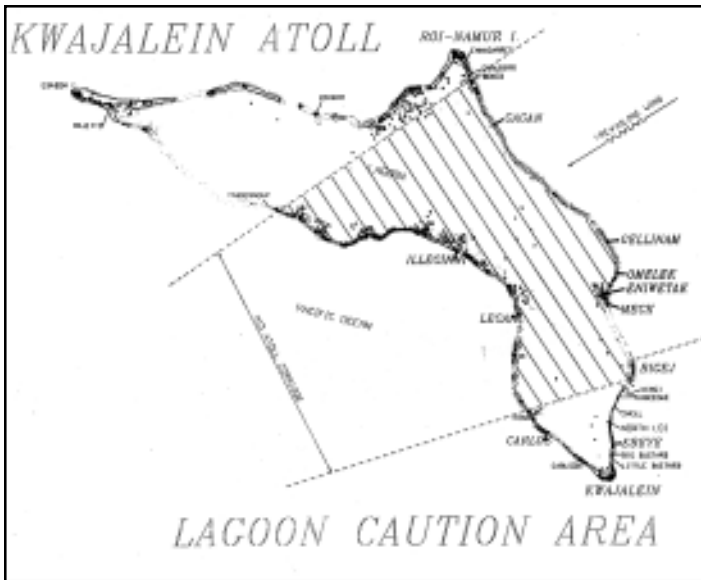

Baby Bags for Ebeye

Through this fund-raiser, sturdy canvas bags, decorated by MOPS, will be given to mothers of infants under two on Ebeye sometime in January, to coincide with the opening of the new Ebeye hospital and infant immunization, said Sheila Wrenn, fund-raiser co-chair.

The bags will contain mits, caps, rattles, teething rings, "onesies," washclothes, and other items. "Everything in the bags, the children will be able to use," Wrenn said.

Sponsored by the Protestant congregation of Island Memorial Chapel, the idea was an offshoot of the international Samaritan's Purse program, which gives shoeboxes to children from ages two to 14. Wrenn said they wanted to do something for the children who were younger than two.

To date, the group has received upwards of $13,000, Wrenn said, including a major donation of $5,000 from Raytheon.

Range operation

From the Command Safety Office

A range operation is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 30. Caution times are 12:01 p.m. through 8:30 p.m.

In conjunction with this operation, a caution area will exist within Kwajalein Atoll, defined by the area bounded on the north by Boked Island on the east reef and Yabbernohr Island on the west reef, and bounded on the south by a line drawn north of Bigej Island on the east reef to a point at latitude 08 54.2N, longitude 167 45.8E, then to a point at latitude 08 52.8N, longitude 167 45.8E, and then to a point north of the high tide mark on Nimni Island on the west reef.

Bigej Island, including the inner reef, is specifically excluded and is not a part of the mid-atoll corridor. An additional caution area extending from Kwajalein Atoll north into the broad ocean area is defined on the map at top right.

In order to ensure clearance of non-mission support personnel from the mid-atoll corridor by the window opening time, Kwajalein Police Department island clearance procedures will begin at approximately 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 27, and continue until evacuation has been accomplished. Egress of all air and sea craft will be required when requested by authorized clearance personnel. Subsequent to lagoon clearance, the hazard area will be in effect until mission completion.

In the event of a mission slip, the caution times and areas will be in effect for the following days:

- 12:01 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 1.
- 12:01 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 2.

Questions regarding the above safety requirements for this mission should be directed to the Command Safety Office, range safety officer, 51910.

Sgt. Robert Lara, Scout Platoon Alpha Team leader, verifies that Kwajalein Police Department Sgt. Joanne Buckman's M-4 is ready for loading and firing during a training exercise at the firing range.

Troops, police train in concert ...

groups received, Wednesday morning at the range was used to cement a bond between the troops and the police department.

"I wanted to build a rapport with the [police]," said Sgt. 1st Class William "Boe" Gentry, Platoon leader and sergeant. "I had my guys give classes to the [police] on all our equipment to build [their] confidence in my lowest-ranking private. If my lowest-ranking private knows what he is talking about, it builds a rapport."

This isn't the first time the unit has helped with security since the soldiers got back to Schofield Barracks, Hawaii in July after six months in Sinai, Egypt.

"We were called to do another security mission immediately following the Sept. 11 ordeal," Gentry said. "The people on the ... Big Island needed additional security ... We went there and augmented their civilian police force."

Practice and training on the firing range isn't all that is in store for Scout Platoon and Kwajalein police. Additional training involves civil disturbance drills, rules of engagement, leaders reconnaissance and a rock drill. A rock drill is a verbal rehearsal for the actual mission.

"Then you actually walk through your exercise, so everyone knows what they have got to do," Wrenn said.

Gentry said, "We get to do a lot of scenarios that way ... when it gets time to execute it on the ground, it makes it easier."

The platoon will then move to Meck three days before the mission, and will go through a full rehearsal, Wrenn said.

The last two days before the mission, the platoon will scour each island in the atoll, using the lessons learned from Greenpeace's infiltration during IFT-5 last year.

"We have a very methodical process where they will load boats and helicopters and they will go from one island to the next ... They actually walk to make sure there are no infiltrators on the ground," Wrenn said.

Although the arrival of troops with weapons alarmed some people on Kwajalein during IFT-6, Wrenn said, "Times have changed. It was designed to send a message to everybody. We take security seriously."

Micronesian expert to lecture at Kwaj

By Peter Rejcek
Associate Editor

One of Micronesia's preeminent authorities on this area's culture is coming to Kwajalein next week.

Father Francis X. Hezel, director of the Micronesian Seminar at Pohnpei, will speak Thursday, Nov. 29, at 7 p.m. at the Religious Education Building.

The discussion will focus on Micronesian, and specifically Marshallese, culture and history, and its resonance in current social issues and challenges, according to Cris Lindborg, director of exhibits at the Marshallese Cultural Center.

The Micronesian Seminar is a research-pastoral institute founded by the Catholic Church in 1972. It was officially turned over to the Jesuits of Micronesia in 1992, and is currently registered as a non-profit organization. Its main mission is community education, although it is also involved in social research and history. Its library contains some 15,500 titles on Micronesia, along with about 7,400 photos and 6,700 slides.

Hezel is the author of eight books on Micronesian culture and history, including a 1979 publication called "Foreign Ships in Micronesia." His latest offering is "The New Shape of Island Cultures." The book draws upon Hezel's more than 40 years in the region, as he assesses the major changes that have hit the culture in the last half-century. He has also written numerous articles on Micronesia.

"He will be a fascinating speaker," Lindborg said.

For more information about MicSem, Hezel and his work, see their Web site at www.micsem.org.

Kwaj Open wraps up with awards banquet

By Kim Parker
Sports Writer

After two grueling weeks of competition, golfers took a little time to honor the winners of the 31st annual Kwaj Open at a banquet Monday night at the Yokwe Yuk Club.

The night was full of surprises for newcomers, including great door prizes, a rousing song recapping the tournament and plenty of awards. Kwaj Open veterans once again experienced many of the same traditions that they have come to expect from the tournament, including a fine meal catered by Sodexho, the presentation of the "Sam Garland award" and most importantly, the camaraderie and guidance provided by Master of Ceremonies Bill Thompson, a staple of the tournament for 30 of its 31 years.

Thompson presented awards to the many winners of the tournament in various events:

TARAWA ATOLL, REPUBLIC OF KIRIBATI—Two U.S.-funded projects in the Republic of Kiribati are helping support education in the island nation south of the Marshalls.

A small USAKA delegation, including Col. Curtis L. Wrenn Jr., USAKA commander, and his wife, Sheila, traveled to Tarawa Atoll Tuesday to check on the progress of the projects, which are being funded through the Humanitarian Assistance Program. HAP is a Title X program administered by the Commander in Chief, Pacific Command.

Wrenn acts as the CINCPAC representative.

One project, which has just been completed, is an 1,800-square-foot lecture hall at the Kiribati Teachers College.

"It's going to play a very important role," said Timau Tira, chief education officer for the Kiribati federal government, of the new lecture hall.

KTC is the only school in the region that trains teachers. It has a student body of about 180, according to Temanori Tiree, KTC acting principal.

The other project involves refurbishment of two U.S.-built primary schools, as well as construction of a maneaba, a traditional Kiribati structure, that will offer students at one of the atoll's primary schools a place for shade and assembly.

"We thought it best to give them some shade," said Darin Haaversen, RSE Special Project manager overseeing both project sites for USAKA.

He said local laborers have also cleaned up the schools, which were built by the Army in the early 1990s. Sports equipment, such as basketball backboards, rims and nets are being replaced, as well.
